Mitch, the witch had a big hole in the roof of her small house.

Whenever it rained, water dripped through all day and all night.

“Drip! Drip! Drip!” cried Mitch, the witch.

“I am tired of getting wet.” She wore her big black hat to keep her dry. She wore it in the house, she wore it in her white bath tub and she wore it in bed. She never took it off.

After a week, she was tired of the big black hat on her head. “I must look for my magic book,” said Mitch, the witch. “Then I will fix the roof with my magic spell.” But Mitch, the witch, could not find her magic book!

She looked under the bed and under the big black cat. She searched for it on her sofa and inside her cooking pot. She looked behind the cupboard and near the piano. She went into the garden. She walked across the lawn and there it was! On her magic tree!

Mitch, the witch, was very happy. She did a little dance. She was delighted and pleased with herself. She purred like a cat. She had found the book at last.

She took the book and turned to page 666. The chapter was called “Mend, Repair, Fix.” Mitch, the witch now read out the spell to repair a roof. It said, “Pink jumping frogs, a blue spotted mouse.

Please magic a roof, for my little house.”

She waited for the magic to work. It always worked.

“Clink, clink, bang, bang, clink, bang, ting, tonk.” She could hear the sounds coming from the roof-the magic was working. The roof was getting repaired.

Thank God, she was a witch and she knew magic!
