SUBJECT AND PREDICATE

A sentence is a group of words that makes complete sense. It has two parts – a naming part called the subject and an action part called the predicate.

- The subject part contains the person or thing we are talking about in the sentence.

(1 of 4)

- The predicate part contains what we are saying about the person or thing we are talking about (subject).

Example 1- Ajay is reading.

In the statement given above

- Ajay is the subject or the naming part. (It tells us what the sentence is about).
- Is reading is the predicate or the action part. (It tells us something about the subject).

Example 2- Sheep give us wool.

In the statement given above

- Sheep is the subject or the naming part.
- give us wool is the predicate or the action part.

Example 3- The stars twinkle at night.

In the statement given above

(2 of 4)

- The stars is the subject or the naming part.
- twinkle at night is the predicate or the action part.

Example 4- The cook made a delicious salad.

In the statement given above

- The cook is the subject.
- made a delicious salad is the predicate.

Example 5- The Earth is round in shape.

In the statement given above

- The Earth is the subject.
- is round in shape is the predicate.

NOTE – Parents are expected to explain the child the theory and the examples given above and then make them attempt the exercise given below.
