INSTRUCTIONS :- Parents are instructed to make the child read the story very carefully and help her to understand the moral of the story.

GOOD MANNERS

Vineet's father, Mr. Das, took him to the bus stop every morning. At one time, he was the only child at the bus stop. After the holidays other children from his school joined him and then there were nine boys and girls at the stop.

On the day that school re-opened, children were very excited to go back to school. They rushed to the bus when it stopped to pick them up. The boys pushed each other and accidentally pushed little Tina down. She was only slightly bruised, but her uniform was dirtied. She began to cry. Her mother wiped her uniform and comforted her. The boys said, "Sorry, Tina" and kept playing in the bus.

The next morning, Mr. Das took Vineet early to the bus stop. As the other children arrived he put them in a line. Vineet arrived first so he stood at the front. The other boys stood behind him in the order they arrived. Tina was the first girl to arrive, so she stood first in the girls' line. The other girls stood behind her.

Mr. Das told the children to do this every morning so that there would be no accidents. He also told the children that the boys would let the girls board the bus first.

All the other parents were very happy that the children had learnt to stand in a queue and to be gentle. The boys had also learnt that they should let girls go first. They said "Ladies first!" and smiled at the girls as they entered the bus one by one. The girls smiled in return and said, "Thank you!"

The boys boarded the bus in their turn.

All the children had a lesson in etiquette from Vineet's father; of how to stand in a queue without pushing and of boys letting girls go first.

We learn manners and how to behave at home and school. We can learn many things from other good people as well. If we go anywhere in the world, we will need to be courteous to one another. Some ways are smiling, forming queues and politely saying "Ladies first!" or "Thank you!"

Moral of the story is.....

ALWAYS BE COURTEOUS AND POLITE.
